

Lycett Dies; City Mourns

Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart cancelled all city meetings and ordered flags on municipal buildings to be flown at half-staff in mourning for former Mayor Bernard J. "Bud" Lycett, who died Saturday night.

Immediately upon learning of the death of Lycett, Stewart cancelled a Redevelopment Agency meeting, City Council study session and similar official meetings scheduled this week throughout the city.

Shock and grief was evidenced among civic leaders, business groups and government administrators up and down the Peninsula.

Longtime friend and political ally Frank Pacelli, also a former councilman in Daly City, said Lycett was one of the "most devoted public officials this county will ever witness."

Mayor Stewart said, "We have lost a good and true friend, a man who worked for the people."

Others echoed these same sentiments.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held at 10:30 a.m. at Our Lady of Mercy Church, Elmwood Ave., Daly City today, followed by entombment at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

Lycett was perhaps the most influential politician in the North San Mateo County area in the past decade.

He would have celebrated his 60th birthday on May 12.

Mr. Lycett had been recuperating from major surgery at Peninsula Hospital since last November.

A native of San Francisco, he moved to Daly City many years ago. He was a graduate of St. Ignace High School and was very active in the Catholic Church in Daly City.

For some 25 years, Lycett was a Deputy Coroner in San Mateo County, covering primarily the northern district. He had been previously employed by Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

At the time of his death, Lycett was self-employed in the real estate business.

In the early 1960s, Lycett decided to take a more active role in local politics after an acquaintance persuaded him to run for office.

Lycett was appointed to the City Council in 1964, replacing Bob St. Clair who was elected to the county Board of Supervisors.

The five-member council, which usually elect a new mayor among its members each year, voted for Lycett to fill that role for almost eight years — from 1966 to 1973.

He was on scores of political committees and organizations.

Among them were the San Mateo County Regional Planning Committee, of which Mr. Lycett was chairman; Bay Front Task Force; San Mateo County Regional Parks Committee; Bay Area Council; North San Mateo County Sanitation District, Presi-

Serramonte Validictorian Blasts Teaching Methods

By FRANK LAPIERRE

A Daly City student at Serramonte High School scored the facility's teaching policies in her valedictory speech Friday during graduation exercises.

Carol A. Marcus received a long ovation from the audience following the speech in which she charged student learning was held down to the "lowest common denominator," rather than allowing students to "attain our full potential as high school graduates."

Carol's father, Dr. Sanford Marcus, said after the speech his daughter was being "experimented upon like all the other students in Serramonte."

"Serramonte was supposed to have been the Great Experiment. It was to have been a model for blacks and browns to get an excellent education in a suburban environment. Instead, they (the school administration) have been shooting craps with these kids," Dr. Marcus said.

His daughter said she was disillusioned with the end result of her four years at the school.

While it is usually the role of the valedictory speaker to push students forward with a philosophy of hope, Carol built her speech around the shortcomings of her education while at Serramonte.

"I cannot (give a message of hope) to graduates of a school where the district announces that it is striving to have its 12th-grade graduates read at an eighth-grade level," she said.

Her English education, the straight A student charged, consisted of being shown comedy movies, instead of learning the usual skills associated with such education.

There was little reaction from school authorities on the speech.

Dr. Hal Tonini assistant superintendent said he had received a copy of Carol's speech and would bring it before the school board.

"All I know at this time is she took a real swipe at everybody — especially the English Department," Tonini said.

Until the authorities had time to study the contents thoroughly, they declined to make specific comments on the speech.

Carol charged that "those of us who are going on to higher education, far more than half of this group knows they are unable to pass the 'bonehead English' examination of the University of California."

She said the "A's" earned at Serramonte are worth about a "weak C in college."

Serramonte did help those students seeking an equal educational opportunity, Carol said, "if equality means the lowest common denominator."

In the only praise given in her speech, Carol thanked "those few teachers who gave of (their) hearts and devotion to cultivate a few flowers in a weed patch" and to "a few parents who kept their part of the bargain by concerning themselves day-by-day with children's education."

And she praised students who showed up to classes and completed their assignments despite the fact, she alleged, they would have received diplomas even if they "goofed off completely."

City Manager's Office

2 Women to Top City Posts

Daly City City Manager David R. Rowe today announced the employment of two new staff members in his office.

Mrs. Miriam Gholikely began work as administrative trainee in the City Manager's Office Jan. 27, under the City's Affirmative Action Program.

Mrs. Gholikely has been a resident of Daly City for six years, and has previous experience as an Administrative Unit Clerk for the City of San Francisco, Department of Social Services.

She also served as a fiscal clerk for the federal government.

Mrs. Gholikely and her husband, Alexander, have two children, a son who lives in Daly City, and a daughter who works at Stanford Medical Center in Palo Alto.

She will be performing special assignments for the city manager, and will be working in a variety of specialized fields of municipal administration, including personnel, finance and labor relations.

The second appointee started work Feb. 3 as an administrative assistant in the city's Personnel Office.

Mrs. Cindy Parma was previously employed by Orowheat Bread Company, where she was administrative assistant to the Director of Personnel.

Her duties included the drafting of recommended personnel policies for the Corporation, writing position descriptions, assisting in the design of a company-wide salary administration program and conducting job audits and employment interviews.

Mrs. Parma is married, and has no children.

She has resided in Daly City for 19 years. She graduated from Jefferson High School, and from the University of San Francisco with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology and Psychology.

She expects to complete course work for a Master's Degree in Public Administration. (See Page 2, Column 5)

DC Woman Awarded Food Stamps for Unborn Baby

A U.S. District Judge Thursday ordered the Department of Agriculture to allocate a pregnant Daly City woman an additional $38 worth of food stamps a month for her unborn child.

It was believed to be the first case of its type in the country, Assistant U.S. Attorney James A. Bruen said.

In December 1974, Pamela Hickman, of Daly City, and Rosa Emily Fields of San Pablo, filed a class action suit asking that unborn children be eligible for food stamps.

The suit was filed by the Legal Aid Society of San Mateo County, Legal Aid Society of Long Beach, Food Advocates of Berkeley, and Drew Health Rights Project of San Francisco.

While Mrs. Hickman's food stamp case is believed to be the first of its kind, there are some 20 states that already recognize unborn children as members of a family, qualifying them for Aid to Dependent Children.

Mrs. Hickman is in her final month of pregnancy, U.S. District Judge H. Harris was told.

She is suffering from malnutrition and often has only a soft drink for breakfast, attorney Robert Teets told Judge Harris.

The extra stamps will allow Mrs. Hickman to buy food to build up her strength until the baby is born.

After the child arrives, it will automatically be eligible to receive the stamps, it was explained.

Mrs. Hickman lives alone.

Previous to Judge Harris' order, she was allowed to buy only a single allotment of food stamps — about $46 per month costing $21.

Now, she will be able to purchase almost double that amount.

"The unborn children of low-income mothers are subject to very substantial hazards of low birth weight, mental and physiological impairment, anemia, stillbirth and mortality, if their nutritional needs are not met," the suit stated.

7-Eleven Store Request Denied

The Daly City Redevelopment Project Area Committee Tuesday unanimously denied a request to build a 7-Eleven store on Mission Street.

Robert Carmody, of Larkspur, proposed developer of the site at Mission and Gambetta, presented plans for construction of the convenience store, using drawings and a slide program.

He explained that he would build the store and lease it to the Southland Corp. — owners of some 5,500 stores throughout the country.

For two years, Carmody has been building 7-Eleven stores in the Bay Area and near Lake Tahoe.

And for the past year he has been "up and down Mission Street" studying the makeup of businesses there, Carmody said.

All facts and figures gathered were fed into a computer and it was decided that the store would not conflict with other such stores in the city, he said.

(There is currently a 7-Eleven store at Hillside and East Market and another on 87th Street.)

Carmody said he had heard some people in city government and the business community were against the 7-11 operation because they felt the stores have a "negative attitude toward maintenance."

A telephone call to the Southland Corp. by anyone in city government could rectify this, he said.

But the committee supported staff's recommendation that the application be rejected.

County Sets Talks On Coast Library

San Mateo County is willing to negotiate for a 7½-acre site as location for the proposed Linda Mar branch county library in Pacifica, the Board of Supervisors decided Jan. 26.

In a report to the board, County Manager M. D. Tarshes said that Challenge Developments, Inc., owner of the proposed site adjoining the Park Mall Shopping Center on Terra Nova Boulevard, has offered the county the 1½ acres needed for the library, plus an adjoining 6 acres for a total cost of $150,000.

He said that the city has expressed interest in participating with the county to acquire the entire property, with the city to use any of the acreage not needed by the county for the library.

He reported that the city would be willing to negotiate an agreement in which the county purchased the site and the city repurchased the property over a period of several years. The city also would agree to contribute up to $50,000 on the purchase, Tarshes said.

County Property Manager Robert earlier warned the board against authorizing Tarshes to negotiate for the purchase of the property, noting that the county hasn't had an appraisal, nor has it negotiated a contract for the appraisal.

Tarshes was requested to inform Pacifica officials that the county is willing to negotiate for the entire parcel on condition that reimbursement can be worked out.

Former Mayor Bud Lycett: His Stamina Was Remarkable

By FRANK LAPIERRE

"God's finger touched him, and he slept," Tenyson.

There was no man quite like Bernard J. "Bud" Lycett.

It is doubtful there ever will be again!

Shortly before Thanksgiving Day, 1974, Bud and his wife, "Bunny," breakfasted with this reporter at a Daly City restaurant.

It was a Friday, bright and clear. The following day the former mayor would go into Peninsula Hospital for surgery.

He had suffered four months from cancer of the esophagus, to a point where he could no longer swallow his food without grimacing.

Bud reminisced about his life — as a civic leader and active politician.

There was no bitterness over his defeat at the polls last March.

In reflecting his life he said "I certainly have no regrets. I've lived a great life."

I had seen and listened to similar phrases in the movies, but never in person.

The startling thing was he meant every word. He was not afraid to die because of his firm religious beliefs, he explained.

What type of operation would he undergo, Bud was asked?

"I don't know and I don't want to know," he replied. "When the doctors started to tell me about the surgery I said 'Look, you fellows know your job better than I do. You do your thing and I'll do mine. All I want to know is, when do I go in and when do I go home.'"

Two women walked to the table, grabbed Bud's hand and said "We are all praying for you."

For 10 years I watched Bud Lycett in action. He was a full-time councilman working for a part-time salary.

On occasion, during those 10 years, we exchanged some bitter words of disagreement — mostly over silly, insignificant things. He never held a grudge.

Constantly on the go — from one committee meeting to another — Bud squeezed in a few brief hours a week with his family.

"A councilman's most important duty is to listen to, be responsive to, and do the very best job he can for all the people," Bud Lycett believed.

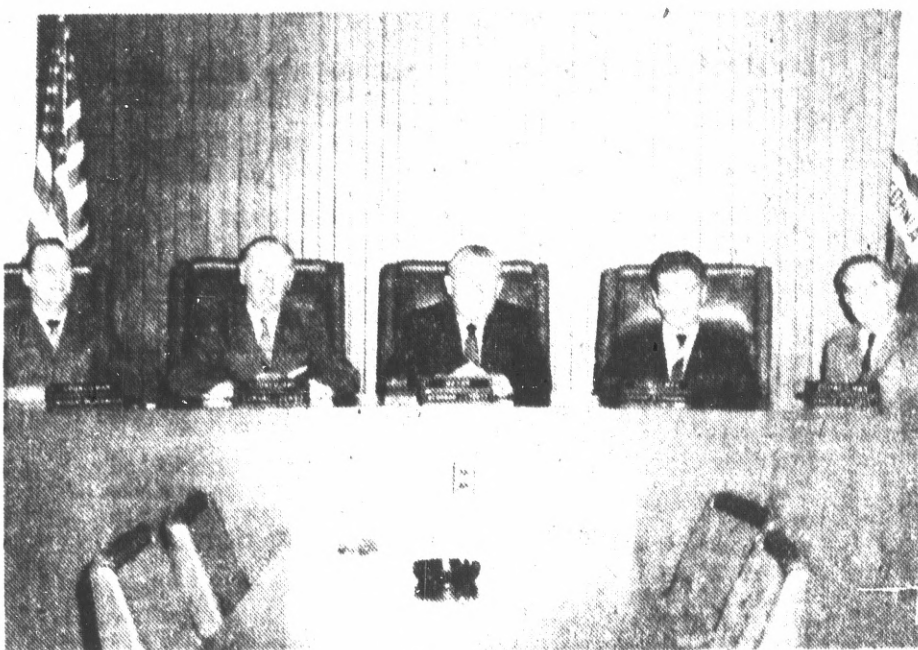

He had several loves, besides his wife and family. He loved children, politics, and his city.

Four years ago, Bud travelled to the Orient with me.

He would go out of his way to talk with the children. Bud could not speak Japanese and the children, for the most part, couldn't speak English.

But they got along great.

Bud was a big critic of Daly City government a few years ago. A friend told him "if you know so much, why don't you jump in and get your feet wet?"

He did!

And almost monthly, it seemed, the vigorous Lycett, who had the best council meeting attendance record ever, was appointed to another committee.

His stamina was remarkable, fellow councilmen agreed.

He fought long and hard for the senior citizen movement, pushing for larger facilities and more activities for the city's aged.

The list of his accomplishments in all fields would probably fill a couple of volumes.

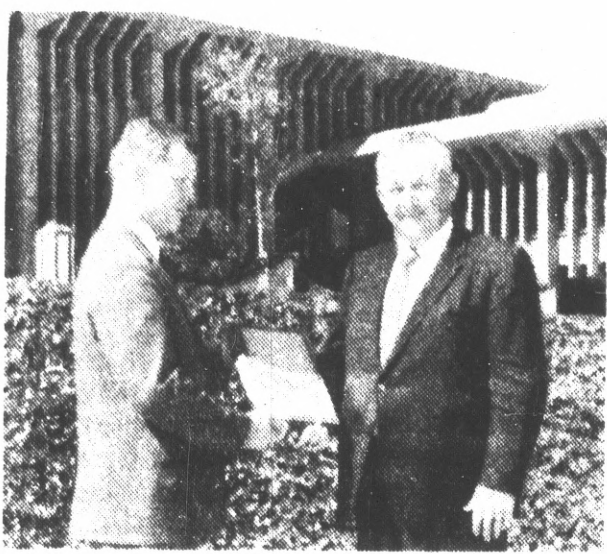

Suffice it, that he left his mark in all corners of Daly City.

Few persons close to Bud have ever escaped his warmth, or his Irish temper.

If he liked you, he argued with you, over anything and everything.

He was always reading newspapers, trying to stay on top of world and national events.

The morning coffee table at a Southgate restaurant was where a person found Bud, most likely conferring with one person after another on events.

AWARD

President City Manager David Rowe presents award to Bernard J. Lycett (right) in 1970 before new Civic Center structure. Award was for best environment design of government building.

Bud Lycett could argue longer and louder over golf than most other duffers who tried to best him on the local links.

His greatest joy was to beat a judge, a real estate man, and even a news reporter on occasion.

And then there was his roses.

His roses had to grow larger than anyone else's.

He spent hours feeding them, pruning them, spraying them, and boasting about them.

I never admitted it before, but his roses were among the finest I've ever had the pleasure to envy.

Those roses were a lot like Bud — a rough, thorny exterior for protection, but beautiful to see in bloom.

DMV Mailing New Self-Test Booklets to 'Good Drivers'

Specialized, self-test booklets are being mailed this week to 30,000 "good drivers" in California whose licenses are expiring early this year. The booklet is part of a pilot program intended to develop more effective driver licensing procedures.

State Motor Vehicles director Robert Cozens explained that the 30,000 drivers were selected at random by the department's computer from those having good driving records for the past three years. They are a representative cross section of the more than 10 million motorists in California with good records, out of a total of 13 million licensed drivers.

Those receiving the booklets will be asked to read them, study the illustrated driving situations and answer the multiple choice questions. Most then will have their licenses renewed without having to take the usual written test.

If the pilot program, of which this mailing is a part, works out, California drivers may one day be given driving tests geared to their driving records, Cozens said. The new testing program could go statewide in 1977.

Problem drivers may get a many-faceted "educational" test lasting up to an hour while good drivers may have to take only a written test in the booklet mailed to them at home.

He stated that the "selective testing" pilot program will eventually involve about 100,000 motorists. The effect of the testing on their subsequent driving records will be studied during 1975 and '76.

"The object of the selective testing project is to find out if the attitudes or driving habits of a driver can be improved by different methods of treatment," said Cozens.

Drivers with numerous violations and/or accidents will receive a 45-question written test plus a "diagnostic" driving test which could include counseling by the examiner. There may also be classroom audio-visual instructions, based on their weak points.

New applicants for a license will receive expanded written and skill tests and will be asked to drive in high-density traffic.

Actual pilot testing will take place in a number of DMV field offices which will be selected to yield a cross section of California traffic, population and geographic problem areas.

Task Force Organized

Think California law enforcement could be improved?

If you do, and want to do something about it, now's the time to sit down and write a letter, the people who are writing the new guidelines suggest.

They'll look over the field of applicants, with an eye to those who sincerely want to participate, when they make up a task force group of 90 county citizens in the next few weeks.

The 90 will join 25 members of the Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County now divided into the task forces which are reviewing tentative state guidelines on law enforcement.

The Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County, still forming up, with two members yet to be named, is located at Mills Court Office Building, Suite 437, 1860 El Camino Real, Burlingame.

Of the 25 council members, three men and three women are public members, and the others (all men) are county and city officials.

The first general session of the full council, joined by the 90 other task force members, is tentatively scheduled for Feb. 25 at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel, San Mateo.

The 25 council members are presently evenly divided among the five task forces which are titles: Law Enforcement, Judicial Process, Corrections, Community Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice System.

Also tentatively planned are five hour-long panel discussion programs on KCSM-TV which will offer residents opportunity to call in their

ns. The entire Standards and Goals program is part of a national endeavor to upgrade the criminal justice system, and this state's segment of that, entitled Project Safer California, is federally funded, and a two year program.

The program began in June, 1974, and in December, after work with 17 advisory committees, comprising 467 California citizens, a first draft of recommended standards and goals for the California criminal justice system was completed.

Heaters Blamed for DC Fires

Heaters were blamed for two costly fires over the past weekend in Daly City.

The first fire was reported at 1124 Hanover St., about 10 a.m. Saturday in the home of Frank Reberber.

Fire investigators said a faulty wall heater in a basement room caused the blaze that heavily damaged the house and slightly damaged an adjacent house.

Damage was estimated at $10,000.

A second fire Saturday in two apartments at 222 88th Street was responsible for some $5,000 damage, firemen said.

The 9:44 p.m. fire started in a faulty heater flu and damaged walls and ceilings in both apartments, firemen said.

DC Auto Hit By Gunfire

Police say a Daly City man who became irate over neighbors taking up all the parking spots around his residence decided to do something about it early Sunday morning.

He allegedly began shooting at cars with a 12-gauge shotgun and a 9mm pistol from his Geneva Avenue house.

Police said he also fired a couple of shots at a female companion, but missed.

Arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon and malicious mischief was James W. Farrell, 39, of 3079 Geneva Ave.

Police said Farrell got out of bed about 3:10 a.m. Sunday and told his companion, Marguerite Gill, that he was hungry and wanted to eat.

Instead of eating, police said, Farrell grabbed a shotgun and pistol and began firing at the cars.

His companion fled the house and hid behind a parked car as Farrell began shooting at her, police report.

A police spokesman said Farrell did not appear to be under influence of alcohol.

He told police he was tired of the cars blocking off all parking spaces.

Several cars were damaged in the incident, police said.

Total number of shots fired was not clear. However, police said about four shots from the shotgun and "a couple" from the pistol were discharged.

Officer Peter Salvi is continuing the police investigation of the matter.

Farrell surrendered to police peacefully.

Man Held on Kidnap Charge

A Brisbane man was arrested and charged with abducting at gun point, two young housewives off a San Francisco street Saturday shortly before 7:30 p.m.

Police identified the man as Donald William Moseman, 35, a welding shop owner in Brisbane.

According to reports of the incident, Moseman grabbed the women at gunpoint in the Watchman-Dakota Street area of San Francisco and drove them to his welding shop at 21 Industrial Way, Brisbane.

Inside the building, Moseman allegedly ordered the unidentified women to disrobe.

Instead, the victims ran from the building and hid in brush on the side of the Bayshore Road, police said.

As they ran, Moseman allegedly fired two shots at them, police said.

Later, the women found their way to a nearby service station and called police.

Meanwhile, Daly City police stopped Moseman as he drove along Guadalupe Canyon Parkway at a high rate of speed, police said.

The two women were brought to the scene of the traffic stop and identified Moseman as the man who abducted them, police said.

He was charged with kidnapping, assault with intent to commit murder, armed robbery and attempted rape, and booked into county jail in Redwood City.

DC Man Surrenders In Tense Drama

After some tense moments and much talking Friday afternoon by a Daly City policeman and two doctors from the North County Mental Health Center, a Daly City man surrendered instead of following up on a threat to kill himself and the two small children with him.

Police said Mark Anthony Osborne, who lives on Santa Barbara Avenue, was convinced by Sgt. Dennis Sheen and Doctors Norman W. Weinstein and Helen Paulson to seek help at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City.

Hospital officials said Osborne is a patient in the hospital's psychiatric ward.

According to police, at about 2:45 p.m. a man using the name Michael Kessler called the North County Mental Health Center and talked to Dr. Weinstein.

Police said the man threatened to kill himself and two children he had with him, and if police were summoned, he would kill them also.

According to police, Sgt. Sheehy spoke with Osborne for approximately 15 minutes before being let into the home. At that time, police said, Osborne was pointing a rifle at Sheehy and the two doctors. He later armed himself with a 45 caliber revolver in his waistband, police said.

Park Unit Backs Purchase of Land

The South San Francisco Park and Recreation Commission went on record recently as supporting city purchase of a key 20-acre parcel on Sign Hill.

The action was that the staff would study the availability of state and federal funding, and recommend to the City Council that it show interest in purchasing the property if determining it to be a high priority.

The matter had been referred to the commission by the City Council for an opinion.

A local real estate man, John Penna, acting for the hill's owners, has offered to sell the property for $75,000. The city wants it for open space. Some builders are interested in buying the area for a housing development.

The property is located above the "South San Francisco" sign, and Ash Avenue.

The parcel is zoned for single family homes, but Park and Recreation Supt. Dick Milkovich said any developer buying the land probably would want it rezoned for apartment units. According to Milkovich, only about eight acres would be suitable for any building because of the steep terrain.

Although saying he would like to see the hill preserved as open space, the superintendent told commissioners it was a matter of priority what the city wished to spend its money on.

The dilemma led Commissioner Lura Sellick to remark, "By the time we have the money, there'll be houses all over (the hill)."

The city had considered developing a park on Sign Hill which would have included picnic facilities, but dropped the plan after an extensive report found that the site's physical makeup was not conducive to that use.

Guest Speaker At Temple Methodist

Robert W. Moon, pastor of Central United Methodist Church in Stockton, will preach on Sunday at a 3 p.m. service at Temple Methodist Church, Junipero Serra and 19th Avenue.

The choir of Jones Methodist Church will also take part, with the host pastor, Donald Kuhn, leading the service. The service is open to the community.

A citywide training conference for Methodist leadership will follow the service, with workshops under such church and community leaders as H. LeRoy Cannon, Floyd Pierce, Robert Hawthorne, Robert Hill, Alice Pena, Oscar Preston and Roy Damonte.

One session of the entire group will be led by Nobuhiro T. Imaizumi, pastor of Pine Methodist Church, and a summary will be presented by district superintendent James H. Corson. The conference will close at 6 p.m.

Special Olympics

Sen. Kennedy's Lofty Goals

By FRANK LaPIERRE
Nothing in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's encounter with a score of retarded children and the news media Friday in San Francisco indicated he was a presidential candidate in 1976.

Rather, the easy-talking senior Senator from Massachusetts, dressed in a powder blue business suit, diverted attention from his worked with recreational departments — sponsors of the Olympics — for many years throughout the country, he said.

The goal of the Olympics program is to create opportunities for sports training and athletic competition for the mentally retarded, it was explained.

Many of the retarded attending the Kennedy con-

political ambitions to the children participants in the upcoming April "Special Olympics."

Kennedy arrived at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel in driving rain about 15 minutes late.

He went directly to the children gathered in the small conference room and shook hands all around.

The man whose family has been hit with personal tragedy three times in the past (first, Air Force flyer Joe, next President John F., and lastly, Robert) told of how his family had always spearheaded programs aimed at helping the retarded.

Sen. Kennedy explained that his older sister, Rosemary, is retarded and the family has always sought ways and means to further programs aimed at assisting the retarded.

He praised the "positive response" in the Bay Area from people wanting to help, pointing out that there are some 750,000 retarded persons in California.

Last year, 15,000 participated in the "Special Olympics" and he was "hopeful that number will grow and expand" this year.

The Kennedy family has ference wore medals pinned on their chests — medals they had won in competition for track, swimming and other sports.

Parents accompanying the children groaned aloud as newsmen began asking Kennedy about everything but the Olympics.

"Let's get back to talking about the Olympics — that's what we came for," one irate parent shouted.

But Kennedy said he would allow a few questions.

The questions were much the same as those Kennedy has printed for weeks, including, how do you feel about malpractice suits and possible cancellation of insurance to doctors?

Kennedy said the fees being asked from doctors "is outrageous."

Meanwhile, the matter of whether Kennedy, despite his blunt statement of a few months ago that he would not seek the presidency, or accept if chosen, was not approached.

If he did run, it would be almost certain he would have the vote of those children and parents he took the time to visit on an otherwise gloomy day.

Coast Slaying: Brown Asked to Probe Case

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is being asked by San Mateo County officials to request a report of the circumstances by which a San Bruno man who allegedly killed his long-time friend recently was released from a state mental hospital.

At the instigation of Chairman James V. Fitzgerald, the County Board of Supervisors voted last week to authorize County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett to report the situation to the governor and to seek a discussion of the matter with officials of the State Department of Mental Hygiene.

The mother of Kenneth F. Russell, 20, who is accused of the stabbing death of his boyhood friend, John M.

Yazolino, 20, in Pacifica, has charged that her son was released prematurely from Atascadero State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

"There has to be some means to prevent some similar incident from occurring again," Fitzgerald said.

He blamed the shortcomings of the Lanterman, Petris, Short Act, which liberalizes the detention procedures for mental patients in state hospitals, for permitting the release of Russell.

Supervisor William H. Royer concurred, stating, "We have to look at all aspects. They are not protecting the public."

The board voted unanimously to seek the state probe and to request a meeting of local mental health officials with state officials.

Brisbane Man Killed In Collision with Tree

A Brisbane man was fatally injured Saturday night when his car careened off a rain-slick road and smashed into a tree on San Bruno Avenue in Brisbane.

Frank Hogerheiden, 55, an unemployed carpenter, whose last known address was a motel on Old Bayside Highway, Brisbane, was found by a passing motorist pinned in the wreckage of his car below San Bruno Avenue.

Police said he had been driving southbound on the twisting, hilly roadway and apparently lost control on a curve.

His car plunged off the road for some 550 feet before hitting the tree.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco.

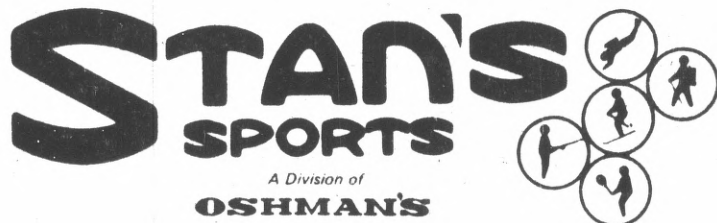

He is survived by a daughter, Karen Smith, of San Francisco, police said.

ARMOR OFFICER

Army Second Lieutenant Robert D. Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred F. Harmon, 2219 Greendale Drive, South San Francisco, has completed a nine-week armor officer basic course at the Army Armor School, Ft. Knox, Ky.

If you have trouble planning ahead your mind will be boggled by the information that a local group is already making plans for a display that won't be viewed by the public until April, 1976!

A committee, headed by Alvin Schwarzbach, will meet on Friday in the Serramonte Shopping Center Board Room at 12 noon, to begin mapping plans for "Fiesta Americana," the bicentennial display of scouting which will open in April, 1976.

This first session is scheduled to last about two hours.

DOING THEIR HOMEWORK, prior to attending the California Hospital Association Convention for Volunteer Leaders, are Mrs. Fran Gaffigan and Mrs. Virginia Cyr, the president and vice president of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

The duo will attend the conclave at Los Angeles' Marriott Hotel on Feb. 24 through Feb. 26. Mrs. Gaffigan has promised members of the guild a complete rundown on the session at the February 29 meeting of the local volunteer unit.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING time is rolling around and the members of the rummage sale committee at Our Lady of Mercy Parish are hopeful that you will remember them with their annual drive to collect rummage.

Clean usable clothing, books, records, bric-a-brac, electrical appliances and furniture are all welcomed by the committee charged with conducting the sale.

Mrs. Michael Millane is the chairperson of the event, sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, and her co-chairpersons are Mrs. John Pappas and James O'Connor of the Westlake Catholic Men. Members of the committee will be in the parish hall every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday during school hours to receive donations. Donors may arrange for pick-up service by calling Mrs. Millane, 755-3411, or O'Connor, 994-3487.

The sale will be held on Friday, Feb. 28, and Saturday, March 1, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., according to Mrs. James Dougherty, the publicity chairwoman for the Westlake Catholic Women.

THE DALY CITY FRIENDS of the Library are enthusiastic about the tremendous success of their pre-holiday bookmark sale.

Mrs. John Connolly, president of the library group, reports that $66 worth of the charming little hand made bookmarks were sold during a two-day period.

CLOTHING, FURNITURE, jewelry, toys, shoes, and an assortment of household items will be offered for sale at the annual Holy Angels Rummage Sale Saturday. Mrs. John Brignoli, Mrs. Walter Bugler, Mrs. Francis Domaratus and Mrs. Joseph Garlino are in charge of the fund raiser which will be held in the parish hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma.

The sale will begin at 9 a.m., according to Mrs. David J. Rushka, publicity chairwoman, who suggests you shop early for some extraordinary buys!

MRS. NERMER GONZALEZ, literally with a sob of joy in her voice, is requesting everyone interested in assisting with the newly funded Day Care Center in Daly City to contact her soon and learn how the talents of everyone can be put to use.

Much remains to be done before the center can begin caring for the children of Daly City's working mothers. If you have time or talent to contribute, call Mrs. Gonzalez as soon as possible at 992-3591.

"OF MICE AND MEN," the Sprindrift Players' production which opened last Friday, will continue this weekend with performances on Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., at the Oddstad Park Center in Pacifica. Tickets will be sold at the door for $2 per adult, $1.25 for students and 75c for children.

MAY SOUNDS like a distant date, but time flies past quickly when there is a considerable amount of work to be done. For that reason members of the Balboa High School Alumni Association's dinner-dance committee are asking for volunteers to begin work now for the association's fiftieth anniversary party.

For more information about the party or to offer to assist with planning and preparation call the alumni office, 333-2777 or Mrs. Emily Sumrall, 826-8046, or Mrs. Joan Christensen, 467-5021.

PLANNING AHEAD for a trip to the Mother Lode Country in May are members of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica.

Members of the seniors' group are chartering a bus to take them to Volcano with a stop at famous Daffodil Hill, during the spring.

Members and their guests are welcomed to go, see the blossoms and meet with members of the Senior Citizens Club of Amador County for a dinner.

If you are interested call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg for more information.

Tickets for adults will be $2, junior and senior high school students $1 and elementary and pre-school children 75c.

No tickets will be sold at the door. Contact Esther LaPied for tickets.

It's Another Female 'First'

By MICHELLE CARTER
Post Staff Writer

as well as the usual calls that come to animal control officers.

Jean Nelson was not seeking to make points for the women's movement when she applied for a job as an animal control officer at the Peninsula Humane Society. She just wanted a job - any job.

She heard about the job by responding to a poster about the Federal Emergency Employment Act which she saw when she went to apply for food stamps. She inquired, the interviewer noted her extensive background with animals including a stint as a veterinarian's assistant, and she was hired.

The 22-year-old blonde may not have been interested in breaking new ground for women, but she did. Jean is the only female animal control officer in the Bay Area and possibly in Northern California.

After talking with the Jefferson High School graduate, it seems unusual that there haven't been other women in her position before.

"I don't think too many women ever applied," she said, "but of those that did none ever qualified. There's some heavy lifting involved from time to time."

Such as the 100-pound German shepherd killed by a car last week that she had to hoist into the white animal control van she drives around the streets of San Mateo.

Jean's work assignment is limited to the city of San Mateo because technically she is an employee of the city who is loaned to the Humane Society to work on the city's problem of stray and barking dogs.

Accompanied by her own German shepherd Duchess, Jean works a 4 p.m. to midnight shift checking out complaints of barking dogs

Frequently Jean gets her complaints relayed by the San Mateo Police Department who receive the initial calls from citizens annoyed by a dog's barking.

"The P.D. (police department) finally realizes that I'm around and are sending me more calls. People could usually get faster results on barking dogs if they would call here instead of the police."

In responding to such a complaint, Jean will listen for 10 minutes to see if the barking continues. If it does, she will knock at the door and issue a citation to the owners. If no one is home, she will summon the police and impound the animal. (The police are there to ascertain that she takes nothing but the animal with her.)

Actually Jean will go to great lengths not to impound an animal. If she finds one running loose, she will try to chase it home and issue a citation to the owner rather than haul it into the crowded shelter.

The cramped conditions at the Coyote Point facility are not the only reasons she would rather keep the animal at home; many times the owners fail to claim their animals, which eventually are made available for adoption or destroyed. Unlicensed dogs are held for only 96 hours; those with licenses will be held until the owners either claim them or relinquish them to the shelter.

But responding to calls about barking and stray dogs takes a back seat to emergency calls for a suffering animal. If the animal is alive when Jean arrives on the scene, every effort will be made to get the animal to the nearest vet for treatment.

"I don't mind the dead animals so much, but the injured ones are rough." Jean will administer first aid to stop serious bleeding and then get help for the animal as quickly as possible.

It isn't the animals that give Jean her biggest problems, "it's the owners." She recalled a recent incident in which she rescued a chihuahua from Bayshore Freeway and then got static from the owner when she returned the animal and issued a citation.

"I can't believe they've got the nerve to argue with me when I've just saved their dog."

Does she worry about getting bit?

"No, and I never have been bit. I charge the dog and don't give in. If it's a really vicious dog, it's going to bite anyway so I just don't think about it."

How do her male counterparts react to her?

"We've had a few good debates, but they've been great. If I have a problem, they'll tell me what they would do."

In the future Jean would like to expand her job beyond the confines of the city limits into rural areas where she would have the opportunity of working with larger animals. She has three horses for her own which she keeps on her father's ranch in Morgan Hill.

Jean Nelson, who was looking for "a job, any job," happened to find the right job, in fact the "perfect job" for her.

NEW OFFICER AT WORK

Jean Nelson, the first female animal control officer in the Bay Area, leads a German shepherd into the animal shelter at Coyote Point. Jean, who owns three horses and a German shepherd who rides in the truck with her, spent part of her childhood on farms and once worked as a veterinarian's assistant.

THE JAIME PINLACS
(Filomena Urrutia)

The Epiphany Catholic Church in San Francisco was the setting for the marriage of Filomena E. Urrutia and Jaime Pinlac, who are making their first home in Daly City.

The morning wedding ceremony was followed by a luncheon reception at Hope Lutheran Hall in Daly City.

Filomena was graduated from Holy Child Catholic School in Manila, and is now employed by a travel agency. Her husband, a graduate of Jefferson High School and the College of San Mateo, is now serving with the Air Force at Travis Air Force Base.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tomas E. Urrutia of San Francisco, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan S. Pinlac of Daly City.

More Donations for Mary's Help Hospital

The James Irvine Foundation has awarded a $250,000 grant to the Mary's Help Hospital Expansion Program, Sister Florence Urbine, president of the hospital's Board of Directors, announced.

The grant money will be used to purchase equipment for a Radiology Special Procedure Room, scheduled for construction during the first phase of the expansion program.

James G. Moore, M.D., Mary's Help Hospital radiologist, explained that the new Special Procedure Room will contain highly sophisticated equipment capable of taking multiple x-rays at a rapid rate with exposures measured in milliseconds.

For sophisticated studies of blood vessels of the brain and abdomen, the special procedure equipment is mandatory, according to Dr. Moore. These studies assist physicians in such ways as pinpointing the site of a brain tumor or internal hemorrhage, which are not readily detectable using simpler methods.

The length of a special procedure test ranges from one to two hours, which is much longer than an ordinary x-ray examination. A maximum of four to five patients each day can thus be accommodated in the proposed Special Procedure Room.

Pancake Supper Planned

The choir of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, 777 Southgate Ave., Daly City, will sponsor its annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper Feb. 11 beginning at 6 p.m.

The tradition of eating pancakes on this day before Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, goes back many centuries to the ancient custom of fasting during Lent, but also to avoid all foods containing fats.

Therefore, the people tried to use up on Shrove Tuesday all the fat that was left over. In many English towns and villages early on this day a "pancake bell" was rung to announce that it was time for all good cooks to begin frying pancakes. An old rhyme said: But hark, I hear the pancake bell, And fritters make gallant smell.

The public is invited for this traditional supper. Guests may come any time after 6 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

The donation to support the music fund is $1.50 per adult, $1 for children 12 and under, with a maximum of $5 per family.

Patricia Cortes Wed

Patricia Elizabeth Cortes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Cortes of Daly City, was married recently at Holy Angels Catholic Church in Colma to Joseph Steven Pap, son of Mrs. Laszlo Pap of San Francisco.

The bride wore a high-collared gown of satin and lace with a long train. She added a mantilla in the same length as the dress.

Lily Cortes, maid of honor for her sister, set the style of dress for the secondary attendants. The bodice of her gown was peacock blue velvet and the skirt was of sky blue chiffon.

Bridesmaids were Anita

Dominguez, Geny Dominguez, Flo Keane and Katalina Pap. Michelle Bianchi was the flower girl.

Larry Pap was his brother's best man. Ushers were Mike Quinn, Pat Quinn, Frank Arbelva, Mike Weatherwax and Bill Durham.

After a reception at the South San Francisco Elks Club, the couple departed for a Santa Catalina Island honeymoon destination. They are at home in San Francisco.

Good morning, good cooks.

If you have a large can of sliced peaches on the shelf and some cheddar cheese in the refrigerator, I'd like to share a recipe in which you combine the two to make a delicious dessert. Of course, peaches and cheese aren't the only ingredients in this dish, read on and I'll give you the whole story.

CHEDDAR-PEACH DEEP DISH DESSERT

- 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) drained, sliced freestone peaches
 - One-third cup sugar
 - 2 Tablespoons fresh lemon juice
 - One and one-third cups all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup margarine (1 cube)
 - 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
 - One-third cup peach syrup
 - Ground ginger
 - Vanilla ice cream
- Arrange the 29-ounces drained sliced peaches in bottom of shallow four to five-cup baking dish. Sprinkle with the one-third cup sugar and the two tablespoons lemon juice.

Sift together the one and one-third cups flour and half teaspoon salt, cut in the one cube margarine until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix in the one cup shredded cheese. Sprinkle the one-third cup peach syrup over mixture, one tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with a fork. Gather up dough with fingers. On lightly floured surface roll dough about 1/4-inch thick. Cut in half-inch strips and make latticed top over peaches. Sprinkle lightly with ground ginger. Bake in 350-degree oven 40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm topped with vanilla ice cream. Serves 6.

Come summer, you may want to substitute fresh peaches. Fresh Peach Variation: Substitute two cups sliced fresh peaches for canned peaches. Increase sugar to 3/4 cup and use 1/4 cup water instead of peach syrup in pastry.

NOTE: The cheeseburger casserole had misprints in the amounts of green pepper and onion. Here is the corrected recipe:

CHEESEBURGER CASSEROLE

- 1 pound ground beef
 - 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 - 1/4 cup chopped onion
 - 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
 - 1/4 cup catsup
 - One-eighth teaspoon pepper
 - 6 slices American cheese, about 6 ounces
 - 1 can refrigerated biscuits
- Oven 400 degrees. Four to six servings

Brown the one pound ground beef with the fourth cup each green pepper and onion in skillet. Drain off fat. Add the eight ounces tomato sauce, fourth cup catsup and one-eighth teaspoon pepper; simmer.

In 1 1/2-quart casserole, alternate the meat mixture with the six slices cheese, beginning and ending with meat. Arrange biscuits around edge of casserole. Bake in 400-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes, until golden brown.

Deborah Wenner Becomes a Bride

At home in San Mateo after a wedding trip to Squaw Valley are Mr. and Mrs. Keith R. Dippel, who exchanged vows in January at St. Catherine of Siena Catholic Church in Burlingame. The Rev. Maurice Shea officiated.

The bride is the former Deborah D. Wenner. She is the daughter of Mrs. Gloria Wenner of South San Francisco who hosted a reception after the ceremony at the Burlingame Recreation Center. Wedding guests included the bride's grand parents, Vera F. Butcher of Millbrae, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wenner of St. Paul, Minn.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dippel of Santa Rosa.

For her wedding, Deborah selected a full length white organza gown detailed with pearly Alencon lace appliques. Members of her bridal party selected blue floral print dresses trimmed in white lace.

Mrs. Stan Hartwig (Lynda Wenner) of San Lorenzo was her sister's matron of honor. Secondary attendants included Mrs. Richard Bahr (Shari Dippel) of Daly City, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. David Lawrence (Margaret Souza) of San Mateo, Mrs. Ralph Wilson (Diane Nominni) of Belmont, Mrs. Robert Trevizo (Nanette Kast) of South San Francisco, and Kathleen Bomben, also of South San Francisco.

Samuel Chandler

Paparazzo

"Mr. Chandler, I get mad when I see a book like 'Jacqueline.' Whatever happened to privacy?"

Wait a minute! Listen to the author-photographer, Ron Galella. In keeping the public informed, he writes, "through pictures and words" photojournalism's responsibility becomes "the job of breaking through the wall of press agents and bodyguards to get to the stars directly."

So here is the conflict between two opposing rights: the individual's right to privacy and the public's right to be informed. The clash will grow hotter as America seeks to define the dimensions of a free press.

Meanwhile, "Jacqueline" is the story of a man who shadowed Jackie Kennedy Onassis from one day to the next, for ever taking her picture to capture every "off-guard, unrehearsed, spontaneous expression and gesture." He pestered her so much her public grew disgusted, and "leave Jackie alone: leave Jackie alone!" people shouted as he walked through the park looking for her, or as he hid near the door to her apartment on Fifth Avenue in New York City.

Ron Galella went so far as to hide behind the counter in the stores where Jackie shopped, and to date her maid in an attempt to infiltrate her apartment. He even secured himself on her husband's yacht. When Jackie married Ari, Galella followed them to their private island, Skorpios, and took pictures of Jackie's every movement from her early morning exercises to her evening suppers with her husband or children.

Why did he violate one woman's privacy to such an extent? Because, he replies he feels an obligation to give the public pictures of its "superstars" that have greater meaning. Such pictures "communicate the flavor of life — something that studio photography can't approach."

Jackie's response was violent. She kicked him, smashed his camera, and had him ejected from one building after another and finally obtained a court order to restrain him.

His response is contained in his book of photographs, "Jackie, Jackie, Jackie. Everything depends on Jackie. Jackie is international, the biggest star all over the world. She doesn't have to do anything but step out of her door to make news. There is tremendous curiosity about Jackie. Everybody wants to know what Jackie is doing all the time."

Yet Galella shadowed Jackie for more than commercial reasons. After a few months of snapping her picture he wrote, "Why was I hunting her? It was more than just money. Was I falling in love with Jackie? ... I don't envy Ari for being married to Jackie. ... I couldn't handle Jackie: I get satisfaction out of taking good pictures of Jackie."

For this reason he hounded her every step. "She's a great challenge." "My poetry is in her pictures ... my best testimony for posterity."

"Jacqueline" is a beautiful book of photographs and of the philosophy of a man who lists his profession as a paparazzo which is a free lance photographer. His advocacy is taking pictures of movie stars and other celebrities.

To most readers, he is a professional pest.

Outdoor Education, Day Camps

LSSD Eyes Surplus Site

By JACK BIK

An unused school site in Pacifica may be used for outdoor education, day camps, backpacking classes and an organic gardening center.

It will depend upon the success that Recreation Supervisor Don Cadman, staff aide Bruce Vogel, and Laguna Salada curriculum consultant John Bogle have in obtaining a total of $45,323 in grants from the state. The city has applied for a grant of $8,323 and the school district has applied for $37,000.

The money is available from the state's personal-school board two weeks ago and the City Council last week, voted to make joint application to the state.

Cadman reports that its grant application is for:

- A five-day a week day camp program for youngsters 8 to 12 years of age.

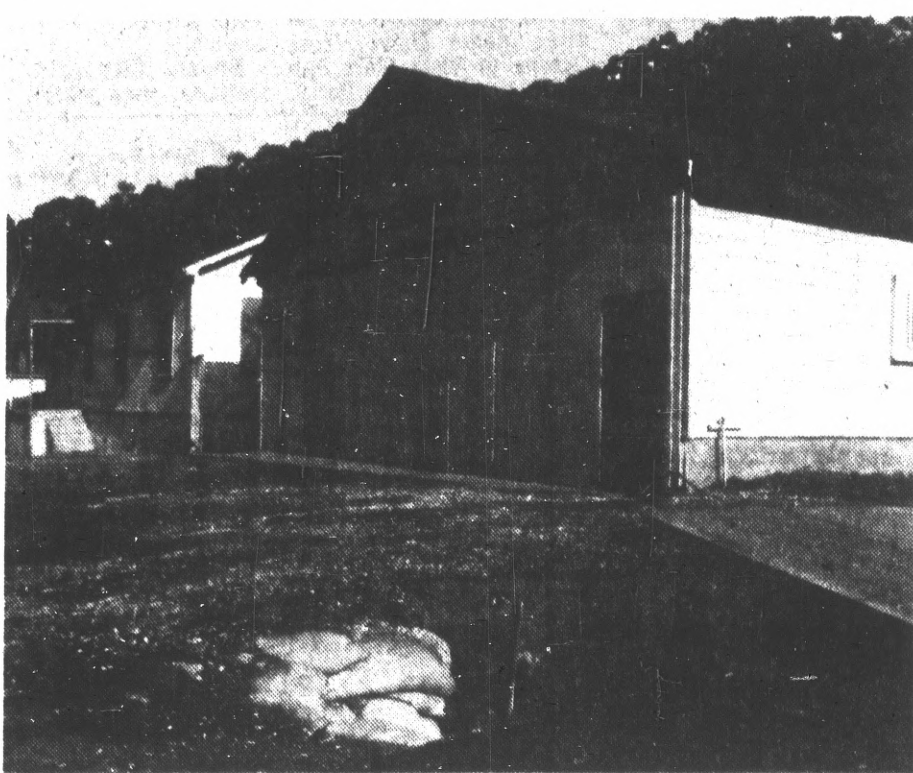

- A backpacking class, to meet on three consecutive Saturdays, winding up with a week-end backpacking trip on the fourth Saturday.

- A family hiking program, to consist of a nature trail, half-day hikes led by naturalists, and organization of overnight hiking, rock climbing, bird-watching and other nature clubs.

- An organic gardening program. Ten by 30-foot plots will be rented for 80 families or clubs to grow organic crops. They would be aided by the Pacific Organic Gardening Club and the Farm Extension Service.

The site was purchased several years ago, when it appeared the Linda Mar subdivision would be larger. It is one of four surplus sites owned by the shrinking Laguna Salada School District. The state is demanding annual payments for all unused school sites, so school officials began studying potential uses for the undeveloped lands.

City and school officials hope to start their programs this July. The grant money would pay for a day-camp director, six environmental interns, equipment and supplies.

FUTURE CLASSROOMS?

Farmhouse and barn (above) of the old Pitto Ranch in Pacifica will be converted to classrooms and natural museum facilities if federal and state money is received by the Laguna Salada School District. The Ranch site spreads through glens and marsh areas where a small stream trickles through the land.

The day camp project is in the planning stage.

With an environmental theme, activities would include outdoor games, arts and crafts, plant, animal and insect identification. Fifty youngsters would participate daily in the six-week program.

According to Cadman, the Pitto Ranch site is ideal for nature study. It has a creek gurgling through it, with a series of marshes and glens, one of which, he said, is "almost like Walden pond."

The site totals nearly 50 acres.

The ranch is located southeast of Linda Mar, and the end of Perez Drive.

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department uses an old farmhouse and barn on the ranch for keeping park equipment. Monday night, the City Council authorized spending $1,060 for showers, repair of electrical wiring and other facilities for park employees.

The school district wants $37,000, much of which would go for refurbishing the farmhouse for rainy weather classes. Most classes would be held outdoors.

Classes in various grades would be making day time trips to the ranch for environmental science studies. No overnight facilities are planned at this time.

SSF Teachers' Pay Package

South San Francisco teachers have asked for a cost of living pay increase and a host of fringe benefits in a 21-page "package of proposals" submitted to the school board last week.

Acting under a new procedure set up by the legislature last year, the school board will now make up its own package of proposals to the teachers. A meeting of the Certificated Employees Council, and seven administrators who represent the board, will then be held on Feb. 19.

Under board procedure, an agreement must be reached by mid-May. With a tax election on March 4, it is unlikely that any money matters will be decided before then. However, many of the teachers' proposals do not involve money.

The teachers, for instance, are asking for reinstatement of sabbatical leave, and suggesting that it be worked out so that it would not cost the district additional funds. Teachers also are asking for an early retirement plan which they say would save the district money by replacing high-paid veteran teachers by low-paid beginning teachers.

As part of their cost of living package, the teachers are asking for a 4.2 per cent catch-up increase on top of a cost of living increase.

According to Ronald A. Rovetta, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council, the teachers received only a 4 per cent increase last year, when the cost of living went up to 8.2.

Other requests of the teachers include:

GRADUATED

Navy Aviation Boatswain's Mate Second Class Steven W. Beauchamp, whose wife Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schnieder of Park Pacifica, Pacifica, has graduated from the Career Information and Counseling Course at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

During the three-week course he received instruction in techniques of enlisted career counseling and planning. Beauchamp also attended classes on active duty opportunities and incentives, and post-retirement benefits.

They'll Have to Pay for It

Residents Do Not Want Underground Lines

Several Linda Mar Boulevard homeowners told Pacifica's City Council last week, they do not want their street given top priority for undergrounding of power lines.

They had no objection to beautification, they said, but did not want to pay the $300 to $600 apiece, to remove the overhead utility lines.

Meanwhile, Stuart Cross, president of the Sharp Park Improvement Council, and Kitty Bouly of Pedro Point, complained that their areas were not given top priority for undergrounding.

Several residents claimed their neighbors had not been notified of this council session, and that they would have no choice in undergrounding, since if they did not pay for a new electrical connection, the expense would become liens on their properties, to be paid with their next tax bill.

"I'm already being taxed out of my house," said Charles Parker, 1201 Linda Mar Blvd., "I just received a $27 a month increase, because of reassessment. Let's talk in terms of more austerity."

Mayor Aubrey Lumley said a district was not being set up that night. The council only was adopting some guidelines, and setting priorities, he said, promising that before any district is formed affected homeowners would be notified of a public hearing.

However, he conceded, under state law, the protests would have no legal effect.

"We could put in the district even if every homeowner objected," he said. "But we'd be out of our minds to do so," Lumley said.

"We'd like to make it clear," said Joe Isener, local PG&E representative, in response to criticism of the utility, "the PG&E is not trying to force any one group to underground. We're not cramping it down your throat."

He added that PG&E never has taken its money away from a community.

Lumley said there are too many applicants for undergrounding.

The council finally voted on a master plan for undergrounding utilities, but included in its resolution a provision that it would not choose streets where most of the property owners were opposed to paying their share of the cost of undergrounding.

The plan included, in order of priority: Linda Mar Boulevard, from DeSoto to Peralta; Manor Drive, from Oceana to Vista Mar; Palmetto Avenue (Sharp Park), from Montecito to Paloma Avenue. Deputy City Atty. Bill Galston, meanwhile, was instructed to determine how property owners could pay their liens over a 10-year period.

Pacifica Civic Center Architect Is Sought

Pacifica plans to search for an architect who can plan and design a civic center.

The action encountered some council opposition.

Councilman Sid Lorvan said, "In this economy, with our financial situation, I think such action is premature."

He said he could not vote for any action to spend money. He cast the sole vote against starting the planning for the civic center.

Stuart Cross, president of the Sharp Park Improvement Council, objected to moving ahead with the center.

Councilman Stan Farber questioned whether it was premature to hire an architect before a site was selected, but he joined the council majority, however, when City Manager Don Weidner said the project's architect must be involved with site selection.

Farber said he feared the architect might design a "monument" to earn a larger fee; Weidner said the decision would be that of the council.

The architect's work will be divided into at least two phases. He first must help decide on a site, then start work on design, should the council give the go-ahead signal.

"I want him to determine the cheapest, most economical, and best place for building the civic center complex," Farber declared. "If he feels that we won't be ready for 10 years, I want to hear that too."

The councilmen adopted a resolution specifying the center be centrally located.

Clean Carpets Last Longer

It's a fact. Unlike fine furniture and vintage wine, carpets don't improve with age. They just wear out and fade away. There's no way to stop the wear and tear but we have a guaranteed way to slow it down. Let us remove the old shampoo residue, dirt and sand that are constantly breaking down your carpet's fibers. We'll make the impacted areas come to life again by cleaning the pile and lifting it. It makes sense these days to increase your carpet's life expectancy. Clean carpets last longer.

'Recognized Authorities'

Parents Being Used As School Consultants

El Camino High School Principal Bob Keropian is assembling a unique blue ribbon panel to serve as an advisory committee to help evaluate the school's curriculum.

Keropian's plan avoids the usual practice by many schools of having a limited number of citizen volunteers tackle the complex task of making recommendations in fields of study foreign to them.

The reason behind the principal's forming a committee of experts is simple:

"If you want to find out whether the English and math classes are preparing students sufficiently to adequately apply for jobs and pass the required tests, ask the employment heads of major industry who interview graduates.

"If you want to know if the business courses provide the skills needed to 'make it' in that field, ask the leading businessmen for their views.

"If you want advice on how to run a cooking class in the home economics department, ask a top gourmet chef.

When some of those experts happen to be parents of children at El Camino, Keropian figures the whole plan makes even more sense.

Keropian figures the whole plan makes even more sense.

Keropian said he got the idea after an extensive survey showed that El Camino parents were involved in over 2,000 occupations and had expertise that could benefit the school's staff.

Occupations include an engineer, nurse, night club entertainer, customs inspector, banker, clothing cutter, insurance manager, ship-rigger and produce buyer.

Since the school is required by law to develop a committee to assist in determining the future curriculum and specific goals in each subject area, Keropian decided to use some of this expertise. He invited parents knowledgeable in the areas covered by the school's 12 departments, but went a step further by bringing in a few non-parents who had achieved prominence in their fields.

Keropian said the plan is to establish a partnership between the school's professional staff, parents, and business community. He explained that traditionally similar committees in other schools had just 10 to 15 lay citizens making recommendations that might apply to 12 departments offering over 200 subjects.

Through the use of these "recognized authorities in their fields," Keropian has formed 12 separate committees, representing each department of the school.

The 12 committees will function separately and each will eventually select a representative to serve on a "blue ribbon" steering committee that will coordinate and forward the final proposals to the district administration and the Board of Trustees.

Some 80 parents and other key authorities met with members of the school staff in an initial meeting last week at El Camino High School. Those attending then broke off into the 12 different committees, according to their expertise.

At the English Department meeting, one employer complained that many of the high school graduates applying for jobs have trouble just filling out an application and wanted something done about that.

In a business session, one businessman said there should be some better classes in management, and another participant suggested that the schools put more emphasis on the importance that a good attitude and personality play in being successful in the field.

And at the math department committee meeting, the concern was that the type of classes offered may not always prepare the student for the job situation.

After the individual meetings, some of the committee members commented on the program.

"Kitty J. Maffei, who holds a management position at Standard Oil, said many students are not getting the basic English skills and that too much emphasis is placed on impractical English, such as Shakespeare and poetry.

"Milan J. Bloecher, an employment representative from Pacific Gas and Electric Co., said the quality of the applicant could be much better. He said many lack the basic skills in English, math and spelling, but he added that he has hired some very fine graduates from El Camino.

Samuel B. Johns, the executive chef at Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. of America in San Francisco, once cooked for then-General Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1950.

In referring to today's bleak employment picture, Johns said any youngster willing to work hard and learn every facet of the trade would have no trouble finding a job. "Too many of them, though, are ready to walk out the first time you yell at them," he said.

"A. Kirk Conragan, the director of the Josephine D. Randall Junior Museum in San Francisco, and parent of a 16 year old son at the school, said he was emphasizing the need for students to study the environmental sciences.

Conragan said with the energy and food crisis, the students must be prepared to face and understand these problems.

According to John Devine, director of teacher education at the University of San Francisco, the program went well in its first meeting. Devine, who was a co-organizer in the plan, thought bringing together of these individuals was "a unique approach that could become a model for other schools to emulate."

Keeping Daly City Beautiful

The Fellow Feathers hang gliding club conducted a clean-up project on the cliffs in Daly City recently.

Thirty-four bags of garbage, assorted Christmas trees, and a plastic duck were gathered in the drizzly fog. When the westerly winds come up, the Westlake Cliffs provide a favorite site for local advanced hang glider pilots and a beautiful view for Daly City residents.

In addition to cleaning up the environment, the local club actively is providing safety information to new hang glider enthusiasts, a rating system to regulate local hang gliding sites, and a responsible, safe, approach to this exciting new sport.

The Fellow Feathers club currently is working with the San Francisco Park and Recreation Department, the GGNRA, the National Forest Service, and the Army to provide supervised hang gliding sites for beginners through advanced pilots.

The public is welcome to attend meetings. The next meeting is Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Westlake Sporting Goods, the Westlake Mall. For details call: Ms. Jan Case or Glen Woodbury, 756-0650.

Hearing Set On Bayside Construction

A hearing on banning construction within 100 feet of the bay, has been continued to the Feb. 11 meeting of the South San Francisco Planning Commission.

Acting Chairman Homer Hale said he wanted all bayside property owners to be aware of the ban.

The restriction was recommended by City Planner David C. Hale, in order to protect "the natural scenic and recreation qualities of the bay."

He recommended: •Amending the city's zoning ordinance to require a use permit and a 100-foot bay setback for properties in the M-2 (industrial) zone.

•Adoption of a resolution by the Planning Commission, finding that the bay is a valuable regional resource and an important asset to the city — and that public access to the bay should be provided along the city's entire waterfront to enable walkers and bicyclists to get from one part of the city's new Shoreline Regional Park to the other.

Hale pointed out that the city has recently obtained rights of way for over two miles of shoreline for the future park, which must now be protected for eventual park development. Protesting the proposals at last week's Planning Commission meeting was Robert E. Viczok, plant engineer for Merck & Co., located on Point San Bruno. The plant extracts magnesium from bay water, and must thus be located on the shoreline.

Trustees to Fire Teacher in South SF

A South San Francisco Unified School District teacher has been notified by the trustees he will be fired.

The teacher, William Getzelman, of San Francisco, has until Feb. 28 to respond to the school district's decision.

After meeting in closed session last week, the trustees adopted a resolution of notice of intent to dismiss Getzelman. He now has the choice of resigning, filing an appeal, or permitting his dismissal to take effect.

According to Supt. Paul Nielsen, the teacher and his attorney were present when complaining parents testified to the board. The teacher was removed from his classroom, at Sunshine Gardens school, when the complaints were first made. He has been working at the district's textbook center since then.

Several of his teaching colleagues maintain Getzelman "has done nothing wrong." Dr. Nielsen said no criminal charges are involved.

Charges upon which the board acted Wednesday included: "Evident unfitness to teach; persistent violation and refusal to obey school law of the state and reasonable regulations prescribed by State Board of Education and the governing board of this district, for the governing of public schools."

No details of the charges have been publicly released.

Focus on Prevention

Gregorio Offers Alcohol Treatment Bills

Four bills dealing with alcohol prevention and treatment were introduced in Sacramento Thursday by State Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

One of them, SB 329, is designed to finance detoxification programs in order to "get the public drunk out of the criminal system and into one which is appropriate for his care and treatment," Gregorio said.

He said such treatment would be less expensive and "more humane."

A bill passed in 1971 allows counties to treat public drunks outside the criminal system, but does not provide money for programs, Gregorio said.

If passed, his bill would provide for $50,000 the first year for planning, $15 million the second year and $50 million the third for creation of detoxification centers and operational expenses.

"It costs money to save money," Gregorio said, insisting that the detoxification eventually would cost less than criminal processing.

If an earlier bill introduced by Gregorio (SB 204) passes, the funds for the programs would derive from a new tax on the sale of liquor and beer.

However, Gregorio expects another fight from the liquor industry. He says it again "will be trying to kill the bill." Similar bills have been defeated in past years.

Gregorio Thursday also introduced a measure (SB 328) which would create a program of demonstration projects in alcoholism prevention, keying to particular groups which are targets of liquor industry efforts for increased consumption. He identified those "targets" as young persons and "minorities."

A third bill introduced (SB 327) allows the state alcohol program management to contract with University of California for research on the social reasons for alcoholism.

Gregorio envisions all of the bills being financed by a liquor tax, but each bill provides for general fund funding if the liquor tax bill fails.

The fourth bill (SB 330) would broaden judicial discretion to allow for diversion programs for repeat drunken drivers without suspension of licenses.

County to Seek 2 New Judgeships

By DUANE SANDUL

An attempt to garner two new superior court judgeships for San Mateo County is under way.

A spokesman for Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, said last week that Arnett would introduce a bill for the new positions, probably in conjunction with other county legislators, if the judicial council and San Mateo County Board of Supervisors approve.

Presently, there are 13 superior court judges, one court referee and a soon-to-be-hired court commissioner for domestic cases.

The bench was last increased in 1970.

Presiding Judge Robert D. Miller said that the State Judicial Council recently revised its method of determining the number of judges a county should have. The formula is a complicated one, based on the number of civil and criminal cases filed, and the number of judges to handle them.

Judge Melvin E. Cohn said the backlog of civil cases last year increased from eight months to 11 months, still one of the best in the states.

An administrative wing of the judicial council presently is informally reviewing statistics compiled by county officials, showing San Mateo was short 1.7 judges last year, and will be short two this year and three in 1976, Judge Miller said.

A resolution of support will soon be sought from the Board of Supervisors, initiating the legislation. J. Paul Peapoles court administrator, said filings increased in 1975 by 8.42 per cent, as nearly 15,000 documents and complaints were filed in Superior Court.

Judge Miller believes that if a bill is successful, the new positions probably would not become effective until next January.

County to Ask Bids On Insurance Coverage

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has decided that the county will seek bids for its insurance coverage.

County Director of Building Construction and General

Services Henry P. Tarratt recommended the "departure from the past" because of the whopping increase in insurance coverage negotiated through the Independent Insurance Agents Association.

The Board of Supervisors requested Tarratt earlier this month to investigate alternatives to a negotiated contract, including the possibility of self-insurance, after he reported that the county's liability insurance premium was being increased from $400,000 a year to $635,000, a hike of 60 per cent.

Tarratt informed the board last week that the county should be able to get a more favorable rate by going to bid.

He said that the bid has been structured so the county can obtain the desired level and quality of service at lowest cost by accepting different bidders for the various types of insurance, or one bidder, if he can provide the lowest cost for the entire package.

Specifications provide that bidders must submit firm bids by April 1, and allows the county a maximum of 60 days to evaluate the proposals and select one or more bidders.

Collision Injures One

Two cars were demolished and a San Mateo woman injured in a collision which occurred when the traffic signal lights ceased working at El Camino Real and Murchison Drive in Burlingame at about 2:45 p.m.

Police said the cars were driven by J. A. de la Pena, 1220 Murchison Drive, Millbrae, and by Mrs. Janice Phebus, 177 El Camino Real, San Mateo.

Both cars received major damage, and Mrs. Phebus' vehicle rolled over, police said.

Mrs. Phebus was taken to Peninsula Hospital with a scalp laceration but was released after emergency treatment.

Her small son, also in her car, was not injured, the police said.

De la Pena's vehicle did not roll over, and he was unhurt, they added.

Officers are still attempting to learn why the traffic signals were not operating. The signals were restored to operation following the collision.

Child Adoption Law Change In Effect

By VERA GRAHAM
There are at least 2,500 children in California looking for parents.

And there are another 30,000 children who need foster parents.

Due to the current recession, adoptions have dropped drastically in the state, from a peak of 8,667 in 1968-69 to 2,500 in 1973-74.

A new law was passed in California which went into effect Jan. 1. It expands opportunities for placement of children.

It creates a reciprocal pact between California and 23 other states which will make it possible for children from other areas to be adopted by California parents and children from this state to be adopted in other states, if conditions are deemed in the best interests of the child, explained Mary Sullivan, chief of the Adoption Service Section of the state department's Social Services Division. The law is called the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children.

The compact, said Director Sullivan, "will establish an orderly procedure. This kind of placement has taken place before, but it has gone from agency to agency without any proscribed procedures which give the state necessary information on the child's location and circumstances, and whether the conditions of life are the best for him or her."

If someone in one of the states covered by the pact wants to adopt a child special steps must be taken.

The adoption must go through a licensed agency of the state where the child lives. That agency in turn notifies the state where the parents live, which investigates the conditions of the adoptive family and makes a recommendation. It then also maintains a periodic check to insure the welfare of the youngster.

"It is quite possible," Director Sullivan said, "that conditions of a family in another state would be most suitable to a child living in California and conversely a child from another state would have ideal family conditions awaiting him or her here."

There is also an adoptive procedure referred to as the "Independent Adoption Program."

This involved another 2,223 children given up for adoption by their natural parents in 1973-74, explains Ms. Sullivan.

Under this proceeding, a parent directly places a child with the selected adoptive parents. California is the only state which permits this direct placement.

Once this is done, however, the adoptive parents must file a petition for adoption with the court. Then the state's Health and Welfare Department adoptive division does a study of the home of the adoptive parents and makes a report to the court. If the situation is found to be unsuitable, a recommendation for denial of the adoption is made and a suitable alternate plan is presented to the court. This usually involves either the return of the child to the natural parents, placement in foster care or adoption by another family.

It should be emphasized that this is legal in California only if the parent makes the placement. And the interstate compact also goes into effect here.

For example, if parents living outside of this state wanted to place a child with a California family, the parents would have to work through their state agency which in turn would notify California and authorities here would make sure that the adoption would be carried through under happy conditions.

If the adoptive family does not file a petition, the child may not come to the attention of the court, which raises many legal questions, such as what happens if the natural parents change their mind and want the baby back.

Albert Seltzer, chief of the State Health Department's social services program, said the recent legislation allows this state to join the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children. Its main goal is the happiness and safety of the children, he noted.

Besides involving adoption of children, it also covers placement of children in foster homes or in institutional care.

Seltzer further explained that often the needs of a child, or those of concerned adults can't be adequately served by the available services of administrative programs of a single state. No state acting alone can safeguard the welfare of the child he said, "But with the compact services, activities, family ties can extend across state lines, under uniform rules."

He said, for example, children placed with a family in California may move with the family to a new state and there is the assurance that the youngster will continue to receive the protection given to California children in the cooperating new state.

It was further explained that under the compact the legal jurisdiction over the child remains with the sending state. The receiving state supervises the welfare of the child and reports back to the sending state.

The compact will increase the chances for adoption, particularly for older children, those with special needs and those who are traditionally hard to place. Its main purpose has been to cut through red-tape and conflicting state laws.

States participating in the compact include: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming.

PROMOTION

William J. Flanagan has been appointed promotion director and assistant general manager of Serramonte Center in Daly City. He is one of only 160 shopping center promoters in the world who has been designated an "Accredited Shopping Center Promotion Director." Flanagan was formerly with Mayfield Mall in Mountain View. He succeeds Ms. Donna Lee Henderson who has accepted a similar position at the Fremont Hub Shopping Center in Fremont, California.

ON CARRIER

Navy Machinist's Mate Fireman Michael J. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Catucci of 24 E. Poplar Ave., San Mateo, has returned to San Diego aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation after a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Middle East.

Le Paeini Hot Stone League

It's about time for a little Hot Stove League stuff here, and it's always interesting to look back at old stories and see how they have stood up under the test of time.

For example, Gabe Paul, President of the Yankees, told the Sporting News' Phil Pepe, in the Oct. 26, 1974 issue, that the Yankee shopping list in order of preference was: 1) A right handed pitcher of quality, "the stopper type"; 2) a power hitter, preferably right-handed; 3) more speed.

We would say that Paul has exactly what he was looking for. Or wouldn't you call Catfish Hunter a righthanded pitcher of quality, "the stopper type," or Bobby Bonds a righthanded power hitter who will also add speed to the lineup?

And remember how Lou Brock moaned "robbery" when Steve Garvey beat him out for the National League Most Valuable Player award? He was very upset, right? Yet, in a Bob Addie column in the Oct. 19 Sporting News, Brock, when asked if he thought he had a chance to win the MVP, replied, "I don't care one way or another. It's only a popularity contest."

If the longevity and endurance feats of such as Lou Gehrig, Satchel Paige, Hoyt Wilhelm and Mike Marshall amaze you, perhaps you will be intrigued by the record of the unknown John (Jack) Picus Quinn, who should definitely not be unknown.

Quinn's greatest claim to fame is that he is the oldest man to ever pitch in a World Series. He hurled for the Athletics in the 1930 World Series at age 46. He had a 9-7 record during that regular season, and didn't retire until he got into the 1933 season with Cincinnati, which was his 23rd year in the major leagues, where he had started in 1909 with the Yankees.

During his career with eight teams (the Yankees twice, the Red Sox twice, the White Sox, Athletics, Braves, Orioles (in the Federal League) Brooklyn and Cincinnati, he won 247 games, lost 217, and had a lifetime earned run average of 3.27. Only six men in history appeared in more games as a pitcher, (he was in 755) and almost three-quarters of those games was as a starter, as he pitched close to 4,000 innings.

At the age of 44, Quinn won 18 games, lost only seven, and had a 2.90 ERA with the Athletics.

WE ALWAYS THOUGHT Ralph Houk and Charley Silvera, when they spent those agonizing years backing up Yogi Berra, were the two champion non-combatant players appearing on World Series' rosters. Silvera was on seven pennant winners, yet saw action in only his first World Series, in 1949, when he appeared in one game and went hitless in two at bats. Houk was a roster player on four Yankee pennant teams and saw action in just two World Series, one each as a pinch-hitter. He went one for two.

But another Yankee catcher, wouldn't you know it, from another great era makes Houk and Silvera look like iron men. Arndt Jorgens, backing up Bill Dickey, was on five pennant winners, and never got into one World Series game!

Art, as he was called, didn't do much better during his regular seasons with the Yankees, although, like Silvera, he hung in a long time. In 11 years with the Yanks, the native of Norway appeared in only 306 games and got to bat only 738 times. His lifetime batting average was .238, and he hit four homeruns during his big league career.

While we're on losers, or apparent losers, perhaps we should focus on Ralph Branca, the poor guy who gave up that famous homerun to Bobby Thomson in the 1951 Giant-Dodger playoff game for the National League pennant.

Branca has been long ostracized as a loser, but he was a solid major league pitcher. Even in that year of the infamous homer he had a 13-12 record with a 3.26 ERA. He made the majors at age 18, was a 21 game winner at age 21, and lasted in the big leagues for 12 years, or three full seasons and one inning of another season after he gave up that homer.

And now, to make this seem like a real baseball column, a few statistics.

If Frank Robinson goes over 3,000 hits and 600 homers this coming season, and, barring injuries, he should, he will become one of a select circle of three who have accomplished the feat. Who are the other two? Oh, you know... Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, of course.

Officially released National League pitching statistics reveal that the Giants' Jim Barr had the best walks per innings pitched ratio in the league for pitchers who threw 162 or more innings. Barr allowed only 1.76 walks every nine innings. Throw out the 10 intentional passes he issued, and that average is down to 1.39.

A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, we stated, at the end of a column, that eastern critics who down-grade the Warriors because of the "weak" Pacific Division either refuse to acknowledge or don't realize that it is Washington, who at that time was the only team in the NBA with a better record than the Warriors, which is in the weakest league. We then offered statistics to back up our claim, but, unfortunately, they were omitted. So we return to back our claim statistically.

The Warriors are no longer the second best basketball team in the NBA, statistically, and the figures have shifted downward slightly for both leagues, but essentially, the figures are identical to what they were two weeks ago. As we write this, Pacific Division teams aside from the Warriors have a combined 76-102 record, a won-loss percentage of .427. Teams other than Washington in the Central Division are 69-112, for a .381.

While we're still on basketball percentages, Butch Beard now stands first in the NBA in field goal percentage with a .519.

A NOTE OF HIGH IRONY emanated from a wire service report recently when Ray Clarke, general secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, said that the board had called on the WBC (World Boxing Council) not to recognize Muhammad Ali's fight with Chuck Wepner as a world title bout. Clarke contended that such a contest would be "detrimental to the interests of boxing."

After having viewed the Ali-Foreman fight, we don't see how ANY other heavyweight title match could be more detrimental to the interests of boxing. Wepner's got to be an improvement over the Foreman we saw that night.

LETTER, WE GOT LETTER:

Reader Lee Dingies agrees with us that Curt Gowdy has been a disappointment because he has become a celebrity, and therefore bigger than some of the games he covers. He also thinks that John Brodie has room for improvement as a color man (with which we don't necessarily agree), enjoys Wayne Walker, thinks Lindsey Nelson is very good, and that Keith Jackson is better. And we agree with all of that.

He adds, "I'm not much on any baseball team in the Bay Area (he's a Nebraska transplant in San Bruno). Always felt baseball should be watched and enjoyed in warm weather. To freeze my — off at Candlestick is a no-no whether the game is exciting or boring."

The Competitive Spirit Is There Coach Backs Women Sports

By DICK DRAPER
Post Sports Writer

In ancient Greece, women athletes were unheard of. Even WATCHING a sporting event could have meant death to females.

Times have changed, yet there remains a few unthinking troglodytes who feel women should fulfill the traditional role of motherhood and spectating and let the men — and the men alone — pursue sports' perspiration path.

Ed Parker of Foster City isn't one of them. As coach of the Millbrae Lions Track Club, he has tutored national women's champions, and next month he will spearhead the U.S. women's track team in its annual competition against the Soviet Union.

"I definitely believe in equality of expression," said Parker. "A young girl at the age of five or six likes to run and jump as much as any boy does, and why should it be that at 14 or 15 society forces certain standards upon her?"

"She is propagandized into fulfilling certain roles," says Parker, "and I object to that."

Parker admits few girls can compete with boys on a one-to-one basis — skeletal structure and muscular development give males distinct advantages in speed and strength.

"But the competitive spirit is there," stressed Parker. Women are just as competitive as any man, and that's the way it should be. Women want recognition and equality. Let the boys have their sports and girls theirs.

"I don't think the average girl wants to be on a man's team. Talk about male chauvinism... this is a sort of female chauvinism."

Parker's goal of equality is evident on the Millbrae Lions TC, which gives the area's top women athletes every opportunity to display their talents.

"We're not interested in just developing national champions," Parker pointed out. "I'd like to see more and more girls have the opportunity to receive the benefits of athletics through participation in this type of program."

Backing Parker in his pro-women athlete views is the Millbrae Lions Club itself, which has footed the team's financial bill for more than 10 years.

"I am totally indebted to the Millbrae Lions for their support. Helping youth activities in our community is my life, and I've found a group of men who share and relate to these things, and are willing to support us in this effort.

"The money they give is substantial — without it we'd have a very difficult time in functioning as well as we do."

With assistance from the Lions and Parker's know-how, the MLTC has produced such performers as Pat Daniels Winslow, America's pentathlon champion in the Sixties, plus Olympian Marilyn King, national pentathlon open in 1971. Another standout is Karen Elmore, a member of the national junior team that faced the Russians in 1973.

"I hate to sound conceited," says Parker, who also coaches the Mills High boys' track team, "but we have a good program, and the quality of the program is reflected in the caliber of the product."

Parker feels girls should have a physical outlet, and that competition — regardless of the level — can help them to mature.

"They learn to become organized — to be on time, to catch the bus, to bring all their equipment with them. And they learn how to handle competition."

"In a team sport, a deficiency can be covered up by the efficiency of your other teammates, but in track and field it's you all the way, baby. You win or lose. That's one of the beauties of track."

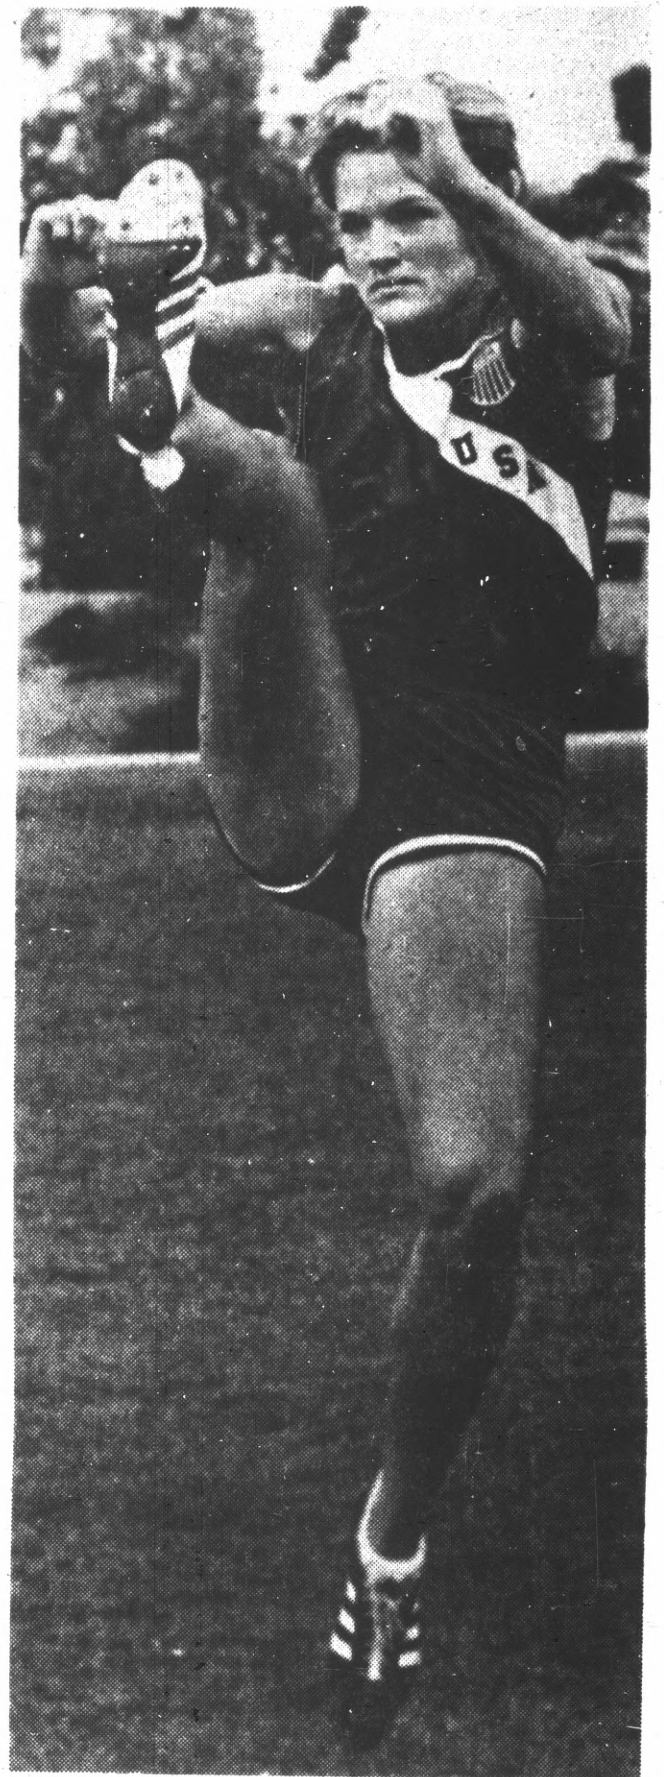

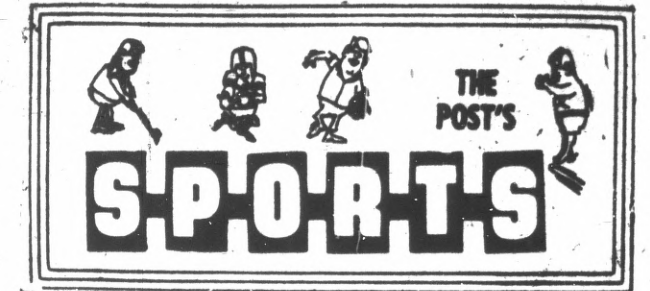

Another reason for encouraging girls to compete in sports is for health.

"Running is a neat sport. It stresses taking care of your body, and it's something you can do for the rest of your life. We need more people addicted to running."

Parker, who coached a girls' athletic association track team prior to joining the MLTC, recalls a mother's statement which keeps his enthusiasm for women's athletics strong.

"She said, 'to educate a boy, you educate a man. But to educate a girl, you educate a family.' She really reached me in my commitment to helping girls' athletics."

"In later life, I think they'll respect their health more, and it will be reflected in their family's attitudes. They'll have a greater insight into why little boys and girls like to romp, run and throw things. I think they'll make a better marriage partner because of athletics."

North Peninsula League Basketball

Rams Win, Regain Lead

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

Westmoor jumped back into first place and Oceana back into the playoff picture as North Peninsula League basketball action entered its busiest week Monday.

The Rams defeated co-first-place holder Jefferson, 71-65, to gain a full game advantage on both the Indians and the Serramonte Regents, who handed South San Francisco its fourth straight loss, 69-53. Oceana pulled into a fourth-place tie with the Warriors by downing El Camino, 54-47, while Half Moon Bay upended Terra Nova, 79-55.

Westmoor 71, Jefferson 65

Defense may seem a strange reason for winning when a team gives up 65 points but without some second half defensive maneuvering the Westmoor Rams would have been losers Monday.

Jefferson led by four at the half mainly on the excellent inside work of junior center Ron Sylvia. Sylvia continually got the ball deep inside the Westmoor zone without any problems and had 12 points by halftime.

But weak side help and fronting Sylvia after intermission stopped him from getting any shots at all in the third period, and with the Jefferson outside shooting spotty at best, the Indians could not sustain any offensive drives.

Guard Rob Baptista keyed the second half surge for Westmoor by driving to the bucket and dishing off. This tactic forced the Indians into fouling situations, and eventually three starters were to foul out.

Tied twice in the final period the Rams put it away when, leading 58-57, they scored seven straight points on a three-pointer by Ted Scott and layins by Jerry McNeil and Chris Tyeskey to make it 65-57 with 1:55 remaining.

Serramonte 69, South SF 53

Serramonte gained revenge for a first-round drubbing by the Warriors by slapping down sagging SSF. A combination of Serramonte quickness and poor shooting by the Warriors gave SSF just 11 points in the first half, the latest of several low points the Warrior quintet has gone through.

Jerome Williams and Marv Worthy combined for 34 points for the Regents, now tied with Jeff for second place.

Oceana 54, El Camino 47

Oceana, which has seen the playoff bait dangled just out of reach for a long time now, made the first move towards that fourth spot with the win over Camino.

Gordon Speck's key rebounding and 15 points before fouling out in the final quarter enabled the Sharks, now 4-5, to keep at least four points ahead of the Colts.

HMB 79, Terra Nova 55

Score one for Romance. Or, more appropriately, score 48. Rick Loveman and Scott Amour combined for 48 points to lift Half Moon Bay into a tie for last place with the upset win over Terra Nova.

Loveman hit 25 and nabbed 19 rebounds while Amour added another 23 points to pace the Cougars to their second win of the campaign. Terra Nova got another fine game from Mike Walley but a fourth-quarter dry spell kept the Tigers from also getting back into possible playoff contention.

Rough Slate For Padres

Serra High's basketball team built a sizeable early lead and then coasted to a 61-48 win over Bellarmine Saturday night at Buchser High in Santa Clara.

The Padres (6-3) rest in second place in the West Catholic Athletic League behind unbeaten St. Ignatius.

Serra needs to win at least one of its remaining three games to clinch a playoff spot, but that will be no easy task.

The Padres must play Sacred Heart and Mitty, currently tied for the WCAL's third spot, on the road. St. Ignatius (20-0) will visit Serra in San Mateo.

SC's Chief Challenger

Menlo College re-established itself as Skyline's chief challenger for the Coast Conference basketball title Saturday. Meanwhile, the league leading Trojans were romping to school records in a 122-104 triumph over last place Ohlone.

Skyline completed the first half of league play with a 6-0 record and a 13-game win streak. The Trojans, who had a 4-5 record following a 70-69 overtime loss at Foothill, December 17, are now 17-5. They're unbeaten in nine home games this season, ten over two seasons.

Skyline starts second half play at Cabrillo today at 7:30, while defending champion Menlo visits dangerous Hartnell (3-3).

Nevada Tours for Special Drive-Up

If your destination is South Lake Tahoe or Reno and your mode of transportation is driving, Nevada Tours can save you money. Various Drive-up packages offer bonus values (cash, food and cocktails) that make a trip to Nevada a worthwhile experience. It's an exciting way to take a short vacation. Ask Kay (345-0488), she'll tell you all about it. The Moonraker, Nick Gust's show-place on the shores of Pacifica, is a natural for those who fancy the nautical with romantic surroundings. Good idea to make reservations in advance. Downstairs in the same building is Captain Charles, which features gourmet seafood for every taste. Wide windows focus your interest on the view. Also overlooking the horizon of the Pacific is Nick's restaurant and lounge, where the action is brisk every day of the week. Banquet facilities are available for parties large or small. After a rousing debut, things have settled down to "normal" in the new coffee shop at Barney's Casino, South Lake Tahoe. As part of the recent remodeling project, the new coffee shop now provides Barney's patrons with a cheerful atmosphere in which to relax while enjoying the casino's gaming excitement. General Manager Harry Bay says a special $1.25 breakfast is always offered from 11 p.m. to 11 a.m. Chicken in a Basket (three pieces of chicken, French fries and a roll) is another $1.25 attraction.

CROWD PLEASERS

Johnny Ray Gomez Revue make their initial debut in the Theater Lounge at Harvey's Resort Hotel, South Lake Tahoe, through February 10.

Valarian Featured At Shirt Tail Piano

Songs from stage and screen, plus all the current pop tunes are included in the repertoire of Valarian, who presides at the grand in the lounge of Palo Alto's Shirt Tail. He's even recorded a number of favorite requests on an album. Vince Licata, along with sons Tony and Louis, are to be commended on the sweepstakes success of Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant and the next-door Fish Depot. The brand of food and hospitality featured at this San Mateo restaurant are really appreciated by its host of customers. The big volume increase in luncheon and dinner crowds would seem to be "proof of the pudding." Lehr's Greenhouse, on Sutter near Taylor in San Francisco, is a luncheon discovery for shoppers. It's a beautiful garden in full bloom — a perfect setting for the enjoyment of delicious continental dishes like Crepes a la Reine and Chicken Kiev. And if you're watching your figure, you can diet deliciously on a scrumptious selection of garden-fresh salads.

Steaks Cut to Order Phil Lehr's Steakery

Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco is one place where the portions are always "just right" for big eaters and dieters alike. Steaks are cut to your exact order, so you can have any size steak to suit your appetite. Enrico Romano is an amazing man. As owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, he puts his culinary talents to the test by preparing pizzas of many varieties and a wide range of Italian dishes. He's also a race car enthusiast, a sportsman, and an active member of the Rotary. The "happiest" time of the day at The Skylark on West 37th Avenue is from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on weekdays, when the "Happy Hours" feature house drinks for only 50 cents. The "happiest" time of the evening in the dining room is 5 p.m. to 1 a.m., when Chef Ray Lim prepares his many Chinese and American specialties. No change in prices and top quality prevails.

Hot Diggity Captures Public's Dine-Out Fancy

Hot Diggity is a new restaurant located in the Bayhill Shopping Center, San Bruno, that has captured the public's fancy. It's an international gourmet soup pantry which offers a wide selection of soups, sandwiches and salads, and the price is right. Incidentally, all the plants, hanging or otherwise, are for sale. Not too many restaurants enjoy the word-of-mouth praise that is often heard about Frank Torres Beach Restaurant in Montara. This fact alone greatly accounts for much of Frank and Fannie's success and their excellent dining spot. The Monday and Friday fashion shows at the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, are making a big hit. Becky and several other pretty young ladies model the latest in lingerie. There's no inflation at Tanager Park Garden Restaurants, where bargain-conscious diners can take advantage of a special 50-cent coupon (see the ad in today's Bright Lights). The coupon, which is valid after 4 p.m. through Feb. 22, can be applied toward any purchase over $1 at any of the nine restaurants located within the San Bruno complex.

Free Test Kit Detects Diabetes

Some 34 possible cases of undetected diabetes in the San Francisco Bay Area and scattered parts of Northern California, of which 14 cases have been confirmed, already have been uncovered as a result of the free dry-pak test kits given out in November.

The Northern California Diabetes Association reported receiving 645 test kits as of Dec. 13, 34 of which proved positive by laboratory analysis, according to Dr. A. William Meyer, president of the San Mateo County Optometric Society which participated in the November Diabetes Detection Program.

Optometrists throughout San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Alameda, Contra Costa, Solano and Napa Counties joined in the month-long campaign, making available some 4,000 Dry-Pak Diabetes test kits to the public through their offices.

Thousands of additional test kits also were given out by the Diabetes Association throughout Northern California.

"When the laboratory analysis show 'positive,' the personal physician of the sender is notified by the Diabetes Association for further examination," the optometry leader said. "In most cases, the physician will report confirmed cases back to the Association."

"The total number of diabetics discovered is not yet final, as the test strips continue to be received by the Diabetes Association, Dr. Meyer reported.

"It's estimated that there are over four million hidden diabetics in the United States. People unaware they suffer from the affliction which uncontrolled, can lead to death; and is one of the leading causes of blindness," Meyer declared, adding:

"Often, the first signs of diabetes can be detected in a routine eye examination — long before there are any other symptoms."

Light's Out for Pacifica Builder's Office Plan

A Pacifica builder had a question for Pacifica Planning Commission members.
"First, I had a modern Spanish-style building. You required me to remodel it to turn-of-the-century," Pete Pereira said Monday night.
"Then, you tell me I had to put in modern decorative electrolights. What do you want?" he asked.
Pereira wants a site development permit so he may move a former model home sales office from Park Pacifica to Vallejo.
The commissioners insist Pereira remodel the structure, which is to be a professional office building, to have it blend architecturally with other buildings on the new site. A remodeled railroad station houses a restaurant a bookstore and another office building at the location.
The city engineering department asked for the electrolight — a light fixture on a metal pole — on the Coast Highway, in accordance with a Pacifica Gas and Electric Co. masterplan for the Coast Highway. Pereira said PG&E is cutting back on lighting requirements and now considers lighting at the Reina del Mar intersection adequate.
The Planning Commission approved the permit, but eliminated the lights and one parking provision from the 23 conditions originally requested by planning staff.
Acting on a proposal that first came before them last spring, commissioners recommended rejection of a request to create an additional lot at the end of steep Loma Vista Terrace. The commissioners had in the past voted against the proposal by Loma Vista Terrace resident George LeBus, but had been reversed by City Council. Last week, the council returned the matter to the Planning Commission for review of four options LeBus had available under various city ordinances.

Trustees Clarify Cutback Plans

South San Francisco school officials reported Jan. 27 that the major reaction to last week's 15 cuts in the school program was over elimination of the after-school sports program and transportation.
Officials held a press conference to clarify some of the $875,000 in cuts.
Supt. Paul Nielsen said the cuts will take effect in July, unless Proposition C is approved by voters March 4.
Proposition C seeks a $95 per pupil increase in the district's revenue limit, and is the same as Proposition M which was defeated, 5,019 to 7,080, last November.
Board Chairman John Dillon defended the board's action in cutting out the after-school athletic program.
Thomas Fee, a parent, and teacher Robert Gehl later announced a meeting of a new organization, Taxpayer Coalition Against Proposition C. Friday at the West Orange Library.
Gehl, a former president of the American Federation of Teachers local, was a member of the 25-member Community Finance Study Committee, which had recommended most of the cuts.
Not only will also students either have to walk to school or find other transportation, but there will be no educational or athletic field trips. Fourteen drivers, a mechanic and a supervisor will be out of work.
Elimination of afterschool athletics also will include drama, band and related programs, as well as football, basketball, track, swimming, wrestling, soccer, cross-country, golf, tennis and water polo, for four junior highs and two senior highs.
Dillon said elimination of such programs as afterschool sports came only after the trustees found that there was no other way to bring next year's budget into line with what they expect the district's income to be, should the tax measure fail.
"We all felt we'd been to a funeral, after we made those cuts," he said.

Edward Rodondi became first vice president; Basil Cavallieri, second vice president, and Bob Daly, treasurer.
More than 240 South San Franciscans attended the annual installation at the Rodeway Inn.
Stagnaro also won one of three awards as an outstanding citizen of South San Francisco for 1975.
The award was bestowed in recognition of his help to youth, the elderly, the sick and the handicapped. He has aided blind groups, deaf schools and the handicapped, according to Chamber Manager Les Davis.
He is president of the South San Francisco Scavenger Co., and is active with the South San Francisco Lions and in little theater.
Manuel Garcia was honored for his activity in coaching youth teams, as a leader in the Baseball Manager Association, in helping with youth cookouts and other work with the youth.
Mr. and Mrs. Denny Swanson were honored for their work with foster children. In addition to raising their own two daughters, they have taken care of 38 foster children.
Northern Judicial District Judge F. Jose deLarios presented the awards.
